

EdisonLearning Statement on Artificial Intelligence (AI)

EdisonLearning prohibits cheating and plagiarism of any kind in the completion of eCourses and presumes that all work submitted by a student is that student's own work product. See EdisonLearning's published Acceptable Use Policy \(AUP\) for, among other things, the full text of EdisonLearning's antiplagiarism policy. While Artificial Intelligence (AI) is not explicitly identified as a prohibited means of plagiarism, the policy is broadly crafted to prohibit plagiarism by any means, including, but not limited to, by using AI.

EdisonLearning's Instructional Support Service teachers may identify a suspected use of Artificial Intelligence in an assignment. If the teacher does detect a possible use of AI, they will alert the student's advisor who will be responsible for enforcing the district's policies related to the use of AI and any subsequent discipline, including loss of credit and/or revoked access.

Resources

EdisonLearning Acceptable Use Policy is available on our website:
www.edisonlearning.com/acceptable-use-policy

Additional Questions?

The EdisonLearning point of contact is the CAOLA Customer Success Manager
Alisha Zak - alisha.zak@edisonlearning.com